About GWI

Girls Who Invest (GWI) is a non-profit dedicated to transforming the investment management industry by attracting and advancing women investors, change-makers, and leaders.

GWI supports first- and second-year college students through tuition-free education programs, while also providing career advisory services, community-building initiatives, and lifelong Alumni support. Our comprehensive approach focuses on fostering long-term professional development, retention, and advancement.

“This program isn’t just a month-long experience – it’s a lifelong support system.”

Filippa Rodriguez, SIP 2024

All admitted Scholars will participate in a unified curriculum that builds technical and career development skills to position them for successful careers in investment management.

As the program progresses, Scholars will continue their education in either the Summer Intensive Program \(SIP\) or in the Online Intensive Program \(OIP\) - dependent on factors including but not limited to availability of internships at our Partner firms, Scholar internship preferences, and in-program performance.

Girls Who Invest offers:

- Tuition-free education including coursework on accounting, risk and return, bond valuation, APV and multiples, DCF modeling, and more!
- Opportunities to connect with leading investment firms for paid internships.
- Mentorship from industry professionals with years of experience.
- A supportive community by your side as you start your career and beyond.
- Ongoing professional development and career advancement resources for Alumni.

OUR PROGRAMS

➔ Online Intensive Program (OIP)

Our self-directed, asynchronous educational program, which allows independent learners to develop fundamental skills in finance and investing. Internship opportunities will be available for a small number of OIP Scholars.

➔ Summer Intensive Program (SIP)

Our 4-week academic training at The Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, led by top university professors and followed by a 7-week paid, frontline investing internship at one of 130+ leading investment management firms.

Who is eligible?

- All majors are welcome - no finance experience necessary!
- Undergraduate first-years and sophomores graduating between fall 2027 and spring 2029
